NEW-YORK MASONS HAVE A JUBILEE. THE LODGES OF THE STATE CELERRATE THE

PREEDOM OF THE ORDER FROM DEST. the various Masonic lodges throughout the State held jubilee services last evening in honor of the re-lief of the Masonic Hall and Asylum from its indebtedness. In this city and its vicinity nearly 200 lodges were so engaged, and nearly fifty of them were gathered together in the Masonic Temple, at Sixth-ave. and Twenty-third-st.

The most important of the services held there were those of the Grand Lodge of the State, which took place in the large hall of the Temple. It was profusely decorated with American flags and the banners of rent Masonic bodies. The room was well filled at 8:30 o'clock when a number of the members of the Grand Ledge, under the lead of Grand Marshal Wright D. Powell, escorted Grand ster Frank R. Law-rence to the platform. Among them were Frederick A. Burnham, John J. Gorman, Herman Corter-Washington, P. Washington E. Connor, Edward M. D. Ehlers, the Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, the Rev. John M. Worrall, John Boyd, Daniel Sickles, John H. Schlick, George Simmons, Mortimer C. Addoms, William N. Penney, Robert Bonynge and Fleyd Clarkson. The following order of exercises was faithfully carried out: Organ voluntary, George W. Morgan; processional march for organ and band, composed by Mr. Morgan; prayer by Rev. Dr. John M. Worrall; "Old Hundred," organ, band and chorus; reading of his address by Grand Master Lawrence; "Halleinjah Chorus," by organ, band and chorus of the New York Banks' Glee Club; oration by Grand Chaplin Cellyer; Jubilee March, composed for the occasion by Mr. Morgan; "Soldier's Chorus," by Glee Club, with organ accompaniment and benediction. Exercises of a similar character were held in the Grand Lodge received telegrams of congratulation from associate bodies in London, Salt Lake City, lation from associate bodies in London, sait Lake City, Denver, Washington, and many other places. A messenger from the thirty-one lodges which were assembled in the First Free Baptist Church of Brooklyn brought a request to the Grand Master to honor them with his presence. He sent Frederick A. Burnham, Deputy Grand Master, in his place. A tablet, culogizing the work of the Grand Master was placed in the main hallway of Masonic Temple.

PRESIDENT BARNARD NO BETTER. There was no change in the condition of President P. Barnard, of Columbia College, yesterday. He rested somewhat during the night, but is still unable to lie down, and is so weak that it requires two men to move him. His physician, Dr. L. Waldstein, has been giving him accumulative medicines, and it is expected that they will have the desired effect in time. The widow of General Barnard, who is in Santa Bar-bara, has been sent for. President Barnard is almost eighty years old, and this fact makes his friends anxious concerning his recovery.

A COURSE OF FREE CHURCH LECTURES. WHY NEW POSTMASTERS ARE APPOINTED. Washington, April 24.-First Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson to-day appointed about 175 fourth-class postmasters, Of this num-ber about 75 per cent were made to fill vacancies caused by death or resignation, Mr. Clarkson said to-day that practically no changes acc being made in fourth-class offices except upon susprove the locations of the offices or where the nostcases, he said, changes would continue to be made upon the recommendation of members of Congress or other competent persons. He said that as the term of office under Government as well as in State and county offices is generally four years, he saw no good reason for making an exception to this rule in favor of fourth-class postmasters. He thought that the service would be improved by making a change as often as once in four years. Many prominent members of Congress of both political parties have expressed to Mr. Clarkson their hearty approval of this policy.

A great many practical needs could be met by judiciously scanning those little advertisements on The Tribune's fourth and fifth pages to-day.

THE CHESS TOURNAMENT. SIXTH DAY OF THE SECOND ROUND.

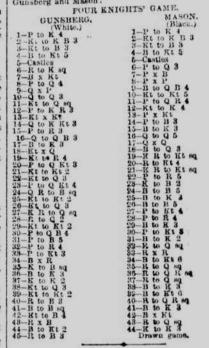

WEISS'S CHANCES FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP IM PROVE STEADILY-SCORES.

The twenty-fifth day's play in the international chess tournament of the sixth American chess congress did not materially after the positions of the leaders. The first game finished was that between Lipschutz (white) and Weiss (black), which resulted in a draw. The former played a Vienna opening, and at one time had a winning position. Gossip lost a Ruy Lopez to D. G. Baird. Showalter tried a Muzio gambit on Taubenhaus, and lost. Mason drew with Gunsberg, and Martinez beat Bird. Tchigorin won of Judd, and Burn beat Delmar, the former having the move. Hanham drew with J. W. Baird. The last game of the day was between Blackburne and Burille, terminating in favor of the former 9:30 p. m.

Pollock and Lipschutz played out their unfinished game, Pollock winning. To-morrow is a bye-day, on which the following drawn or tie games in the second round will have to be played over again: J. W. Baird vs. Bird, Hanham vs. Blackburne, Showalter vs. Judd. Mason vs. Gossip, Delmar vs. McLeod, D. G. Baird vs. Burille, Tchigorin vs. Pollock, and Lipschutz vs. H. Raymond, Herman G. FOUR ENIGHTS' GAME.

NOTES OF THE STAGE.

W. S. Daboll has retired from the cast of "The Brigands," which is in rehearsal at the Casino, and has been succeeded by Mr. Stevens, the tall comedian of "Said Pasha." It is possible that Mr. Daboll will join his old associate, Francis Wilson.

Miss Loie Fuller, who recently returned from a some what unsatisfactory professional visit to the West Indies, has been engaged for the comic opera "Adriel," which is to be given at the Union Square Theatre in Miss Helen Bancroft, who was engaged Marie Wainwright for her production of "Twelfth Nicht" next season, has been released at her own request. It is understood that Miss Bancroft considered that the design for her costume made by Hamilton hell was not likely to be becoming. Miss Wainwright would not allow any changes to be made, and as Miss Bancroff had suffered this season in one unbecoming dress in "Antony and Cleopatra," she asked for her release.

Miss Minnie Palmer will appear in Leonard Grover's comedy "My Brother's Sister" at the Fifth Avenue.

Theatre next Monday. This piece, about which there.

Botassi, Consul-General of Greece, at New York, on Saturday, at 4 p. m., at the Hall of the Young Men's been amounted in this city, but something has always occurred to prevent its production. It has hovever, been played a good deal "on the road," Miss Palmer appears as both a boy and a girl, and the necessary changes of dress are said to be frequent and rapid.

Lena Sittig, is being played nightly at the Madison Square Theatre by Frank Howson's orchestra.

The sale of seats for the first night of "Robert Elsmere" at the Union Square Theatro next Monday was opened yesterday morning. Clara Morris will be the attraction next week at the rand Opera House. Her health is now so good that he has arranged for a Wednesday as well as a Saturfor the pool championship of the dramatic profession at the rooms at Sixth-ave, and Twenty-fifth-st, to-night. The contest will begin at infdulght. The price of admission will be $1, and the proceds will be given to the Actors' Fund. Tickets may be obtained at Palmer's Theatre.

Last week Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett appeared in Cleveland, Columbus and Indianapolis to the largest business of their present tour, the receipts averaging $3,400 a performance. The tragedians have just received from the Pullman Car Company a new palace car called "The Elsmeire," which has been built expressly for them and will be used during the remainder of their season.

The meeting of actors destrous of forming an athletic club, which was set down for Tuesday, was post-poned till to-day at 2 o'clock at the Bijou Theatre. The latest play of New-England life, "Jed Prouty," was produced at Bangor, Me., on Monday night, and s reported to have made a decided success. It was written by William Gill, and Richard Golden the star under the management of Rich & Harris, The play is to be given in this city next October.

E. H. Sothern made on Menday his first appearance as a star in San Francisco. "Lord Chumley" was the play and both piece and star met with a favorable reception. A theatre party of 150 persons enjoyed the "May Queen" at Palmer's on Monday. This is one of the largest social parties that have ever visited this theatre. The McCaull company during the present season has had on the baseball and the military nights some remarkable audiences.

Louis James has engaged Miss May Amber as leading lady for his starring tour next season.

The "Black Crook," under the direction of Imp Kiralfy, will follow "Dovetta" at the Standard. Earton Hill will be the Malvolio in Miss Wainwright's production of "Twelfth Night" next season.

Mr. Daly will present "A Night Off" this evening o-morrow and Saturday mattnee "The Squire" will e given.

Manager Amberg will present "The Violet-Eater, with Miss Klinkhammer as the star, for the first time to-night.

WHERE PENN SIGNED THE THEATY. From The Philadelphia Inquirer.

From The Philadelphia Inquirer.

A well-worn spot, kissed, no doubt, by the lips of many ardent tourists as the one on which William Penn made his famous treaty with the Indians, has just been proved to be some fifty odd feet removed from the historic elim beneath which that treaty was really made. The spot is on the lower side of Beachst, below Palmer, and is now the property of Neafle & Levy, the shipbuilders. When they purchased the lot two years ago for the purpose of enlarging their works, an old resident of the neighborhood stated that the elim stood about fifty or sixty feet from the street. He was laughed at, of course, but his statement has just been verified. In excavating for the new building Neafle & Levy unearthed at the point indicated the root of the old elm. It was shouteful feet in circumference, and so firmly embedded that the workmen were unable to remove it without laborious effort. Forty-five feet from the root, on an adjoining lof, stands the weather-worn markle tablet, which says that upon "this spot" William Penn made his famous treaty. How the error in locating the tablet was made is not clear, but it has lain there many years, and has always been thought to be upon the very spot on which Penn stood.

HOW MR. FILLEY DECLINES. Washington dispatch to The St. Louis Globe-Democrat Mr. Chauncey I. Filley has returned his answer to the proffer of the Japan Consul-Generalship. That answer is characteristic of the old man. It is in these words:

"I will drink my tea in America, not in Japan."

AN HONOR DUE THE VETERANS. GENERAL SCHUYLER HAMILTON SHOWS WHY THEY SHOULD HAVE THE FRONT BANK.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: The parade or pageant of the Centennial of Washington's Inauguration, as was his reception when he came to New-York to be inaugurated, is evidently copied from the triumphs decreed by the Senate of Rome to her successful generals. Triumphs were not always decreed by the Senate. The people of Rome sometimes determined on a triumph, even if the Senate would not decree it. At Washington's inauguration in 1879 it was but the outpouring of the love of his countrymen for the Father of his Country that decreed it. We had then no Senate exercising its functions, and the Senate of the United States happily can decree

The general outside of the City of Rome sent an account of his services and applied to the Senate for a triumph. Then, according to the Portian Law of Triumphs, if a triumph was decided upon, the Senate assembled in the Temple of Bellona, the Goddess of War, read the general's application and decreed a pubhe thanksgiving. On the day appointed the Senate went on foot to the Campus Martius, outside of the city, to receive the triumpher. No general exercising military command was allowed within the walls of The decree of triumph granted a suspension for the moment of this law. Clad in a purple robe, with a wreath of laurel on his head, the conquere distributed gifts and honors to his soldiers, and delivered an address describing the achievements of his victorious army. The procession was then formed. The fictors, or police, their fasces adorned with laurel. led the way. The Senate followed on foot, the magistrates of the city next.

It is said that no unarmed men should march in front of armed troops in our Centennial, because it was not the usage. The Senate were unarmed, yet they decreed the triumph and made it possible. magistrates of the city were unarmed. The lictors, or police, had their arms decorated with laurel. No Senate, it is true, has decreed the Centennial pageant. After a century of experiment of a government "of the people, by the people and for the people," the people of the Empire State and City have decreed it. The veteran made it possible. As the unarmed Senate and magistrates of Rome marched in front, the veterans who were called upon to see that the Senate and magistrates of Rome marched in front, the veterans who were called upon to see that the "country suffered no damage," who saved the country, the flag and the Union, should march in front. This is not in honor to themselves, though they deserve the honor, but in honor of Washington and his comperers, Abraham Lincoin and his comperers, and those comrades who gave their lives for their country. Do not let the surviving veterans bring up the rear, as did Columbus, the discoverer of the New World. The dead in Heaven will look on and weep; the veterans shudder in the graves we decorate that they, through their surviving comrades, are freated with such disrespect. The wide world will cry shame on an ungrateful country if the veterans have not the place of honor.

Do not make it historic that everybody was put grateful country if the veterans have not the place of honor.

Do not make it historic that everybody was put before the veterans in this great pageant. They were early once when the country called. Do not make them late now the country is saved. They were first in battle: do not make them last now in peace. They were always before when needed; do not put them behind now. It may be said that it will derange the present arrangement. That gallam veteran, General Schofield, who, on many battle-fields has moved divisions and army corps so successfully, will easily manage this.

STANDS THAT OBSTRUCT THE SIDEWALKS.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: Not only is every word contained in the letter In this morning's issue of The Tribuna on "A Big, Cheap Grand Stand Needed" absolutely true, but the writer might have gone further, and called attention to the fact that the committee has allowed the stands in all the public squares to be built either over or beyond the sidewalk line, thus completely cutting off the use of the sidewalk for those people who cannot afford to pay for seats. People on the stands could have had just as good a view if the stands had been built back and the sidewalks left clear. That is the way all stands are built in Washington. I have attended three inaugurations and have never seen the stands built over the sidewalks. The committee here certainly could have got points from the Harrison Inauguration Committee in regard to this matter. The way the stands have been built here does not help more people to see the parade, for the sidewalks at Washington and Union squares would have accommodated just as many as the stands do. But the committee succeeds in increasing its receipts and that is all that appears necessary.

New York, April 22, 1859.

A HELPFUL MORAL SPECTACLE.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: As a loyal Jerseyman, I enter a late but vigorous protest against the action of the Centennial Committee for failing properly to provide for the Legislature of New-Jersey in the coming celebration. The committee has "recognized" the New-York Board of Altermen, and holds itself subject to the "degrands" of the Iroquois Indians, but where is the grand stand met with no more consideration than the wishes of State institutions? By all means let the Legislature of New-Jersey have a stand, where it can view and be viewed. It is one of the spectacles of the fimes.

Bergen Point, N. J., April 10, 1889.

ALL THE SEATS SHOULD BE NUMBERED.

To the Editor of The Tribune. sie: Your remarks in to-day's issue of The Tribune relative to numbering the seats on the Centennial grand stand or stands must meet the approval of all who have a sense of propelety and justice. Having paid for a seat, one should be assured of the seat-not merely a "chance" for it. We have only to observe the conduct of a large class in all public places and conveyances, where there are no reservations, fully to realize that "the biggest hog gets the most sorm," whenever it has an opportunity, and opportunities on the stand can be restricted only by the means you suggest—that of numbering the seats. Then all purchasers of seats may get them decently and in order. New-York, April 19, 18-9.

A. WARNER.

To the Editor of The Tribune

Sir: While we are making every arrangement that all who come can see the parades, yet it has occurred to me that we have a class in our own city who should be provided with an opportunity to see the display. I speak of the children who are inmates of our numerous asylums and hospitals. The sight would gladden their hearts and be treasured up in their memories. Will you not please suggest that a stand be provided, or that the kind people along the route of the procession try to make roune or some of them?

PROGRESS OF THE PORRIGN MISSION WORK. Philadelphia, April 24.—The nineteenth annual assembly of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church began in this city to-day. About 300 delegates are in attendance. The president of the society, Mrs. W. E. Schenck, called the bly to order and delivered an address of welcome. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. J. M. Fishburn, placed the total receipts for the year at $143,488 74, and the cost of administration at a little over 1 per cent. Mrs. F. U. Nelson presented the home secre-tary's report, which told of progress in organization throughout the society's territory, forty-seven auxiliaries and 184 bands having been added during the year. Another session was held in the afternoon, at which a "missionary symposium" was held. This evening a general meeting was held, and addresses were delivered by the Kev George A. Seelay, of India, and the Rev. Eugene P. Dunlap, of Stam.

PHILADELPHIA MOVING AGAINST THE WIRES. Philadelphia, April 24 (Special).—A sub-committee on Council's Committee on Law had a session to-day to consider a resolution directing the Director of Public Works to give notice to the various telegraph and telephone companies to remove their poles from the streets of the city before October 1, 1889. representatives of the companies were present. Superintendent Gill, of the Western Union, said: "The Western Union is willing to enter into an agree-ment that its poles and wires within the city proper shall be removed within the time stated in the ordinance now in effect between the city and the Bell Telephone Company, and asks that that portion of the city shall be rid of overhead wires within the time named in the ordinance. That will give the city and the companies ample time to perform the work, and the underground system may be extended from time to time as necessity requires." The com-mittee will hold another meeting.

MR. CLEVELAND PRONOUNCES AS INACCURATE THE STATEMENT THAT HE WILL NOT

BE A CANDIDATE. Charleston, S. C., April 24 (Special).—Some time ago there appeared in a North Carolina weekly paper what purported to be an interview with ex-President Cleve-land. Mr. Cleveland was made to say that he would positively not accept the Presidential nomination in 1892, that his public life was at an end-and that he regarded "The New-York World" as a Republican newspaper. To a member of the editorial staff of "The Charleston World," who forwarded the clipping from the North Carolina paper to Mr. Cleveland, he

"I think it is very unprofitable to attempt to run down the errors and misrepresentations of a newspaper interview. I return the clipping you send me purporting to contain a part of an interview with me during my recent trip to Florida. You ask me to say whether or not it is correct. I shall content myself in this case with hereby saying that the report of the interview contained in the clipping is very inaccurate and misicading."

THE BENEFIT FOR MARSHALL P. WILDER. Marshall P. Wilder's annual benefit drew an audience to Palmer-s on Tuesday afternoon which filled every seat on the floor and in the balcony of that large the atre. The programme was excellent, engaging th services of Brooks and Denton, Wilton Lackaye, Mme Cottrelly, Miss Rose Coghlan, Miss Marion Memola, Tommy Russell, Georgie Drew Barrymore, Miss Mainl The only absentees from the list announced were Eugene Oudin and Will. Rising. Mr. Wilder supplied their places with some of his most humorous efforts.

The investigation by the Commissioners of Accounts into the alleged crookedness in the construction of a cribbulkhoad on Mart's Island in 1881-82, was continued yesbuilders, William P. Kefly, of B. Kefly & Co., dock builders, testified that his firm was the lowest bidder when the work was first givertised, but Controller Alian Campbell threw out all the bids and ordered a readvertisement. John F. Dawson, the contractor who obtained the award, put in a bid of $30,490, which was $13,110 below his former bid, and continuing his figure for some at 27 cents per cubic yard. The witness said that Dawson had no practical knowledge as a dock builder.

John McCarthy, pilot of the tug Minnehannock, of the Charittes Department, said that he was pilot of the Department tug Fidelity when the crib was built, and that he used the tug to tow all the stone used. The stone, he said, was obtained from the city's quarries on Blackwell's and Randall's Islands, and from stone walls torn down on Biackwell's Island. The labor was all done by convicts, working under the prison keepers.

ORIFOT LESSONS IN GEOGRAPHY. From The Boston Post.

From The Boston Post.

Master Hovey, of the old Phillips school, was in the habit of teaching his boys geography in a somewhat curious fashion. Taking up a morning paper, he would turn to the shipping news and read oil the incoming vessels and ask the class what cargoes they probably brought from the ports from which they came. The clearances were treated in a similar way, and then the scholars were asked to hunt the wharves to find what eraft were in port and what they had for cargo or what they took out to their destination. On one occasion one of the class said his vessel was loaded with grain and gun carriages. Where was it cleared for? Some slight disturbance in northern Africa was suggested, but promptly pm down, a Algeria, once the grain field of Rome, still produced ecreals too close at hand. A small war up the Adratic was looked upon with more favor by teacher and boys boys alike, and the question was put if this were not the destination of the evidentity war-laden whip. "No, sir," promptly answered the waggishly inclined student, "she cleared for Fort Warren."
